The Path to Independence: Mobile Apps to Support Transition-Age Youth

Many free and low-cost mobile apps are available to support transition-age youth with disabilities as they embark on their journey towards post-secondary education, job training, employment, and independent living. With so many options, it can be difficult to know where to begin. This list includes apps that have been reviewed by parents and professionals and found to be useful and well-designed. Within each section, apps are listed in alphabetical order, not by priority. These apps were available as listed at the time of publication; however, many apps and mobile devices are updated or replaced frequently and often change in price. New apps are produced on a regular basis.

What is a mobile device?

A mobile device is a small portable device, such as a smartphone or a tablet computer, that typically has access to the internet. These devices run on a mobile operating system (OS), either iOS by Apple or Android by Google.

What is a mobile app?

A mobile app is a software application that runs on a mobile device. Some apps are preinstalled on a device and allow the user to access email, browse the web, or use maps. Other apps must be downloaded from an app store.

Purchasing and cost

Prices are current at the date of publication, but may change at any time. Many apps listed as free can be used at no cost, but may have ads. There are often options to upgrade to a paid version that is ad-free. In some cases, the free version has limited features. Paid upgraded versions may offer additional content and features. To download an app, go to the Apple/iTunes App Store or the Android/Google Play Store from an internet browser, such as Safari or Chrome, or search for the app by name in the appropriate app store. If you are using an electronic version of this document, the website links are live and the app store links are embedded within the iOS or Android that follows the app name. The website URL links provided are typically for the app developer's website to provide additional background information about the app and its uses.

Trial before purchasing

Apps marked with two asterisks () are available to trial from PACER's Simon Technology Center library. You can try apps on a borrowed device or have apps sent to your own. Borrowing apps does require a library membership from PACER's Simon Technology Center. For information on PACER's lending library and to view the online catalog, go to STClendinglibrary.myturn.com/library.

Tips on troubleshooting and support

Apps vary in complexity. Some are fairly straightforward, while others will require additional time to learn. To find help in learning how to use an app, look to see if the app has a "Help" section or a "Tutorial." You may also find video tutorials on YouTube. Your local public library may have staff that are able to help you to use an app. The assistive technology specialists at PACER can answer questions about how to use a mobile app. Contact PACER's Simon Technology Center to learn more at (952) 838-9000 or email at PACER@PACER.org.
